Dear Careers Engineering Team,

I am excited to apply for the Front-End Web Developer position on your team. I'm driven to build sophisticated user experiences with the help of my creative problem solving skills as a front end engineer. I lead the conversation on queer inclusion in the work place, and always speak to my story as a trans person to better build allyship. Whether it's being a developer or a leader, I search to find effective, creative, and smart solutions. With a Master's degree in Software Engineering and Development, and my professional experience at SoulCycle and Goldman Sachs, I am confident I will be an asset to your organization.

I enjoy being challenged and engaging with projects that require me to work outside of my comfort and knowledge set, as continuing to learn new languages and development techniques are important to me and the success of your organization.

Your job posting closely matches my background and skills. A few I would like to highlight that would enable me to contribute to your bottom line are:

- Highly skilled in designing, testing and developing software
- Proven verbal, written communications skills and team player
- Knowledgeable of front-end development best practices
- Proven track record of proper documentation for future maintenance and upgrades

For further details of my qualifications, background, and contributions, please take a moment to review my enclosed resume and github. I can be reached by phone (516-660-0453) or via email at sammossallam@gmail.com.

Thank you for your time and consideration. I look forward to speaking with you about this opportunity.

Sincerely,

Samson Mossallam
